

Project Leadership: Projects that work through people

General Objectives:

This course aims to equip participants with the following skills: to manage their team and the technical aspects inherent to the project, thus ensuring the success of the project at these two levels.

Specific Objectives:

At the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Understand the typology of leadership to be adopted taking into account the typology of the project and its stakeholders.

Audience:

This course is aimed at: Project managers and any other professional who is in a leadership position.

Duration:

12 Hours

Program Content:

Module I - Basic principles of Project Management

- Objectives to be achieved through Project Management - how to lead people according to these objectives;
- Project Manager skills and qualities as a leader;
- How to make a group of people a productive and effective team.

Module II - Leadership: skills needed by the project manager

- Definition of leadership;
- Leadership styles: Leadership is situational;
- Assertiveness;
- Interpersonal relationships: The habits of a highly effective leader;
- Persuasion ability;
- Ability to communicate with the team and stakeholders;
- Motivation: how to self-motivate and motivate the team to achieve the goals.

Module III - The life-cycle of a project and how to lead it

- Launch of the project: definition of objectives;
- Project schedule;

- Project execution and control;
- Completion of the project.

Module IV - Project Management risk and conflict management

- Risk control: risk identification, analysis and assessment;
- Personality conflicts: definition of the 4 types of personalities;
- Conflicts of objectives.

Module V - Conclusion: leadership as a whole

- In conclusion: How to define a leader.